

2022 Planning

OK, we may be getting a little head of ourselves (or maybe it's just the optimism of summer approaching) – but it's a very good time to think about your strategic initiatives for the second half of 2021 or your initial planning for 2022.

We're seeing a trend with many businesses eager to attack their "Phase 2" list and unpack more efficiencies and capabilities from their system and related processes. Are you ready to start planning for that project you've been putting off, or arrange that training class for your team you know has been needed? We have some options to help you get started:

Business Transformation Scorecard

Find out how much of your BC/NAV system you're not using.

Take the quiz →

Current State Assessment

Understand your gaps and get a prioritized action plan.

How's my company doing? →

Role-based Classes

Pick the exact classes your team needs.

See your recommended classes →

Congratulations to Kerry Peters and Cynthia

Priebe

Our own Kerry Peters and Cynthia Priebe have been awarded the Dynamics 365 Business Central Functional Consultant Associate certification! With their application and business process expertise, they were invited to help develop the MB-800 Microsoft Dynamics 365 Business Central Functional Consultant exam. The exam is the first from Microsoft to review a Functional Consultant's knowledge for implementing Business Central and is reportedly a highly rigorous assessment.

Community News

Mark Rhodes highlights the importance of training for your Business Central or NAV system on the latest Innovia Conversation Podcast.

Discover how to embrace digital transformation for real results during the online Manufacturing and Microsoft Technology Conference on May 19 – 20. Registration is free and still open.

Thanks for reading!

